If the government keeps printing money, driving the stock market up, our clients will make money.If the government stops printing money, our clients will keep their annual gains and their principal is protected, too. Do you realize if the Fed had not printed record amounts of money in 2010, the S&P 500 would have finished the year at least 15% down – instead it went up 11%! This recovery is 100% fake – it has been artificially made by the printing of money. Don't be caught in a vulnerable spot when the Fed stops printing for good. Hi, this is AGENT NAME and I have good news. With the strategies we employ at COMPANY NAME, when the market goes up – you win! And when it drops like a rock – you don't lose! One of the wisest and most successful investors of our time, Warren Buffet, has said "What we learn from history is that we don't learn from history." As a financial advisor, I couldn't agree more with Warren Buffet regarding our tendency to forget even the recent past. For several months now the stock market has rallied back to post some impressive gains, but what about the huge loss it had to recover from just a few months before? Most investors are still not anywhere close to being made whole after the loss from the market but are still recovering – not gaining. The strategies I use have NEVER LOST $1 of my clients money because of market volatility. My friends ask me, "How have you done it? To not lose any of your clients' money throughout this recession?" Hi, this is NAME and this is how I have protected my client's money. My clients' principal is placed in a conservative, safe bond portfolio outside the market where it will earn a conservative yield. Then, only the yield is used to buy a position in an index of the client's choice, such as the S&P 500. If the S&P goes up, the index credit is taken out of the market and placed in the safe bonds. If the index goes down, my client will get a zero and we try it again next year with all their principal still intact. The news controls the stock market. When it's good the market is up, and when it's bad the market goes down. Since there will always be both kinds of news your stock market portfolio will always be volatile. Hi this is NAME, let me show you how to take the volatility out of your portfolio by participating only in the up and never the down.
